Practice earns maximum quality points on avoidable ED visits and admissions, saving more than $3,500 per episode

CERRITOS, Calif., Sept. 22, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- The Oncology Institute of Hope and Innovation (NASDAQ: TOI), a leading value-based oncology practice, achieved $1.1 million in Medicare savings during Performance Period 2 of the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services' Enhancing Oncology Model (EOM) through its California professional corporation, with savings equating to more than $3,500 per patient episode. TOI earned the maximum score on avoidable emergency department visits and hospital admissions. Results were driven by our High Value Cancer Care program conducted by Health Care Coaches and 24/7 symptom management support that helped patients stay on treatment and out of the hospital.

EOM is a voluntary total-cost-of-care model created by the CMS Innovation Center to advance high-quality, person-centered, and equitable cancer care for Medicare Fee-for-Service beneficiaries.

"These results again prove that our proactive navigation and real-time symptom management reduce unnecessary hospital visits and keep patients on treatment," said Dr. Yale D. Podnos, Chief Medical Officer and President of Practice. "Patients across all our markets have access to these proven best practices to ensure each patient receives the right care at the right time."

"This performance reinforces TOI's leadership in value-based oncology," said Dan Virnich, Chief Executive Officer. "By delivering measurable savings while improving quality, we continue to demonstrate that high-value cancer care is both clinically superior and financially sustainable."

TOI's success in EOM builds on its track record in CMS's prior Oncology Care Model, where the organization exceeded quality standards and generated multi-million-dollar savings for Medicare.
