CERRITOS, Calif., May 02, 2023 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- A new era of immunotherapy-based treatments for metastatic ovarian cancer is providing patients with an alternative to chemotherapy through Tempus Laboratories and The Oncology Institute, Inc. (NASDAQ: TOI). A Los Angeles patient of TOI became the first randomized patient worldwide to be treated with this promising study drug in March.

"We are thrilled to have been the first to administer this immunotherapy treatment for a patient who otherwise would have needed chemotherapy," said Dr. Paul La Porte, MD. "Our focus as a value-based oncology practice is on patient outcomes and satisfaction. Providing access to cutting-edge medicines through the Tempus-TIME Trial Program reduces a huge barrier for our patients."

The TIME Trial Program is a just-in-time network of providers supporting rapid patient identification, site activation, and enrollment of select, cutting-edge clinical trials. TIME's ability to rapidly open, in an average of 10 days, allows hospitals in its network to easily tap into a marketplace of trials that they can quickly initiate when they have a patient that is ready to enroll. This approach allows for both sites and sponsors to locate these extremely rare patients and then open a trial specifically on that patient's behalf.
